Appin Rd: $50 million promise, $5m animal skybridge

On the road

LABOR has promised an extra $50 million to upgrade Appin Rd, if the party is elected on May 18. An extra $5 million will be used to build a "skybridge" near Campbelltown's koala colony. Meanwhile, Narellan will soon be home to the region's premier sports precinct, says Hume MP Angus Taylor.

A show for kids of all ages

Daniel Zautsen

LEGO fans young and old can practice their building abilities with the hope of winning a free Lego set at Casey's Toys Campbelltown's Lego Show.

The store will be holding the show throughout the school holiday period until this Sunday.

The show includes a series of Lego models including a 10m city built using more than 350,000 bricks.

A daily Lego building competition will see the winner awarded a free set from the store.

A large Star Wars exhibit is also on show.

It features the iconic Millennium Falcon as the centrepiece of the recreated scene. Store manager Simone Chiswick said the Star Wars Lego range was among the most popular in the store alongside the Lego City and Marvel sets.

"It does depend on what is in vogue at the time but the Star Wars range is always popular," she said.

"It's been really busy, the first day was absolutely packed.

"It's not just the kids, we're seeing a lot of adults getting involved.

"I think a lot of them love their Lego more than the kids do."

The show is on at Casey's Toys Campbelltown. The store is located at 4 Blaxland Rd, Campbelltown.
